

The Georgia Firefighter Standards and Training Council adopted an examination policy effective January 01, 2008.

Individuals may re-take a specific level exam up to three times before remediation is required. After the third un-successful attempt, candidates must remediate on specific subject matter not mastered on previous attempts. If the candidate does not gain a successful score on the fourth attempt, he/she must re-take the course for the exam level being challenged.

Before an individual will be allowed to retest for the fourth attempt, he/she must wait a minimum of 15 calendar days and present written documentation on departmental letterhead under the signature of the fire chief or designee attesting the individual has completed the remediation requirements.
